

From left: Victoria Refsnes, Floor Manager Conference - Crown Seaways; Camilla Søegaard, Floor Manager Conference - Pearl Seaways; Jette Krog, HR Manager; Inda Imamovic, Floor Manager Bar - King Seaways; Peter Shlaimon, Sous Chef - King Seaways (back); Julia Midtgaard, Business Leader Shop - King Seaways (front); Emma Nordström, Training & Development Consultant (back); Adele Murphy, Floor Manager Bar - Princess Seaways (front); Kim Heiberg, Route Director; Brian Blixt, Commercial Head (back); Rasmus Krøyer, Floor Manager Bar - King Seaways (front); Morten Berg, Head Chef - Crown Seaways; Lucas W. Haagensen, Floor Manager Restaurant - Princess Seaways and Grzegorz Firgon, Floor Manager Accommodation - Crown Seaways

Last Tuesday was an important day for the 10 participants who completed the second round of our Next in Line internal training programme for new and future managers on our cruise route vessels.

Their journey started with the assessment in June 2017. Since then, the participants have completed nine modules within leadership tools and theories as well as in personal development.

Emma Nordström, Training & Development Consultant, says: "Through the programme, the participants have strengthened their competencies and learned about situational leadership, the DISC personality test, coaching and presentation techniques, just to mention a few of their new skills."

The new graduates completed the course by presenting their final project in front of a competent jury consisting of Kim Heiberg, Route Director, Birgitte Kjærsgaard, Director of Training & Development, Brian Blixt, Commercial Head on Pearl Seaways and Jette Krog, HR Manager on Crown and Pearl.

Kim Heiberg says: “I was very impressed with the presentations and I’m pleased to see the great diversity in the group. Having so many talented managers on board our cruise vessels brings a lot of potential.”

October 30, 2018